Course Overview

The volume of financial data requiring processing is growing exponentially. Are your period-end accounting close procedures efficient and up-to-date? Most likely, they are not. Over the past decade, the speed of completing period-end account closures has become a critical KPI of management performance, reflecting the organization's ability to execute strategic plans and uphold corporate governance standards. This has led to the global adoption of Fast Close or Record to Report (R2R) initiatives by numerous organizations.

This training course provides an in-depth exploration of Fast Close, enabling organizations to rapidly finalize period-end accounts, consolidate information for financial reporting, and publish accurate and reliable financial statements. Implementing Fast Close offers significant benefits, including compliance with stock exchange regulations, timely strategic decision-making, cost reduction, enhanced review time for accuracy, and safeguarding sensitive information from competitors.

Course Highlights

- Types of fast close processes and their advantages
- Development of the fast close process and identification of challenges
- Change management and technology considerations in fast close
- Measuring and benchmarking fast close efficiency
- Financial reporting requirements, including IFRS disclosure standards

Course Objectives

By the end of this training course, participants will be able to:
